WHAT IS IT?

SASS is a 5 day gathering of young people to discuss the forces that shape our lives and communities.

It's a training on organizing strategies and using education for liberation.

It's a chance for us to be inspired by each other.

It's part of the movement to shake things up.

SOME THINGS WE'LL TALK ABOUT:

Preparing and facilitating workshops

Popular Education

Social movements through history

What's going on right now?

WHERE IS IT?

Johansen's School of Ballet Etc. is hosting us. It's an awesome school and dance studio, and home to Ballet Northwest. 412 Jefferson St. between 4th and 5th Aves. (It's right across from the infamous Artesian Well of Olympia!)

Be prepared also for afternoons of activities and excursions! We have lots of social events like rock shows and outdoor movies planned!

WHEN IS IT?

The training officially begins on Tuesday August 26th and goes until Friday August 29th. Monday we will be hosting a pre-training institute where alumni from last SASS will come and facilitate workshops. It'll also give you a day to settle into Olympia if you're coming from out of town, and get to know the lay of downtown.

Food will be provided for breakfast and lunch.

Housing will be available for those of you who are coming from other places.

And it's all free to you! Thanks to a generous grant from the Sparkplug Foundation, we are able to offer the entire training for free! You just worry about showing up at Johansen's.

WHO WILL BE THERE?

Young people between the ages of 13 and 24 who are thinking of creative ways to engage in and re-organize society!
